From all in full bloom.

A visit to the hills, through Sunday afternoon and night, with much rain. We hear of no damage here, but the accounts from the hills may be looked for with apprehension.

Charles Parker.

The old reliable is back from a tour round the world, and has remarked the remotest corners of the earth for the largest, the best, and the cheapest goods he or any one else has ever put on our market. He has gone far, but he has also gone to the center of taste and fashion, and he offers nothing but what is new and good. His advertisement is a regular show, and cannot fail to attract the buyers. Influenced by either taste or economy.

See the special advantages offered in the ad. of J. H. Egan. His Farmer's Journal, which by the way is excellent in itself, is accompanied to each subscriber by a dollar's worth of Bush's garden seed; and these seeds are good.

Let our readers compare the attractive advertisement of H. Mahler. A. V. Mahler has recognized as without a rival; and is all other respects, he is the best in North Carolina.

Comes to the front as the only man in the mountains, by the chair of fashion to give a useful direction. He is not only a man, but a man of taste and direction to his friends. Granger comes in as the Apollo of his class, to show that in the unadorned curl, there may insinuate something of classic grace.

GEORGE H. H. H.

The Giant of stone man claims our notice. He has done more and is doing more in Raleigh to bring H. Mahler into a business than any man we have seen. He has done more in Raleigh to bring H. Mahler into a business than any man we have seen.

We are our excellent friend, Thomas D. Oldham, in town. He is a specimen of that hale old age so often reached in Orange. At the age of 78, he mounts his horse and rides to his place in town with the same energy as a young man. We have many such in Orange, and they are all good men and true.

Our friends who are interested in the history of the hills, will be interested in the story of the hills. We have many such in Orange, and they are all good men and true.

Like the down from the great pillars of the sky, broken into fragments by the wind, the fragments of a great epoch are scattered about the hills. The fragments of a great epoch are scattered about the hills.

Tom, the black and white dog, is a very good dog. He is a very good dog. He is a very good dog.

Mr. Thompson came in on Saturday with a string of chub, one of which weighed well over sixteen pounds, on the principles of the man who swore to the height of a horse at a horse show. He is a very good dog.

A very pleasant reception was had here on Friday night last. Under Mr. Bourge's management, the evening was very pleasant.

We are happy to hear that the hills are doing well. We are happy to hear that the hills are doing well.
